James Edwards Joins Kennebec Savings Bank as Director of Cash Management

Augusta, ME – Kennebec Savings Bank is pleased to welcome Jim Edwards as Director of Cash Management. In this role, Edwards is responsible for leading the Bank's Cash Management Division, supporting the growth of the deposit portfolio through the strategic development and delivery of customized cash management solutions for business customers.

Edwards brings more than 25 years of experience in the financial services industry, with a strong focus on treasury management, government banking, and relationship development across Maine and New England. He has successfully led cash management teams, designed product delivery strategies, and built collaborative partnerships across institutions to support the complex financial needs of commercial clients.

"Jim brings deep expertise, a strong customer focus, and a proven track record of leadership in the cash management space," said Aline Taylor, Senior Vice President & Chief Retail Banking Officer. "We're excited to have him at the helm of this important area as we continue to grow our commercial banking services and support our customers with solutions that are both secure and efficient."

Throughout his career, Edwards has emphasized the importance of streamlined processes, fraud prevention, and the use of technology to support business success. He is known for his collaborative approach to leadership, his ability to build consensus across teams, and his genuine commitment to helping others grow.

"I'm excited to join a bank with such a strong reputation for relationship banking and community commitment," said Edwards. "Cash management is about more than just services—it's about understanding each client's business, building trust, and helping them operate more efficiently and securely. I look forward to doing just that at Kennebec Savings Bank."
