Stevan Stromsky Joins Kennebec Savings Bank as Vice President & Senior Relationship Manager

Augusta, ME – Kennebec Savings Bank is pleased to welcome Stevan Stromsky as Vice President & Senior Relationship Manager, based in the Bank's Portland office. In this role, Stromsky is responsible for developing and managing a portfolio of business and consumer relationships, with a strategic focus on growing deposits and offering lending options across the Bank's expanding footprint.

Stromsky brings more than 30 years of banking experience in Maine, with a strong record of helping businesses and individuals in the Greater Portland area meet their financial goals. His consultative approach, market expertise, and commitment to client service have made him a trusted partner to many throughout his career.

"We're thrilled to have Steve join our team," said Aline Taylor, Senior Vice President & Chief Retail Banking Officer. "His relationship-first approach aligns perfectly with our community banking values, and his leadership will be a great asset as we continue to grow in southern Maine."

A dedicated community volunteer, Stromsky has been active in several organizations focused on education, social services, and the arts. He currently serves as a board member for Chance to Advance and Side x Side. He has also volunteered for more than a decade with Junior Achievement USA, supporting elementary classroom programs and the high school Titan Challenge. In addition, he previously served as a kitchen aide at Preble Street and is a long-standing member of the Rotary Club of Portland.

"I'm honored to be part of an institution with such a strong reputation for community commitment and customer service," said Stromsky. "Kennebec Savings Bank's mission aligns with my own values, and I look forward to building lasting relationships and making a positive impact both inside and outside the Bank."
