

150 State Street, PO Box 50, Augusta, Maine 04332 | Telephone: (207) 622-5801

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Thursday, November 16, 2017

Contact: Adrienne Bennett, Director of Marketing & Communications
ABennett@KennebecSavings.Bank 207-622-5801

Silsby Shares Insight on the Reality of Running a Local Bank

Podcast Enables Mainers a Convenient Way to Listen When They Want

AUGUSTA, ME – Kennebec Savings Bank CEO and President, Andrew Silsby, recently was featured on the Like a Boss podcast, which focuses on sharing valuable first-hand accounts of the realities of running a Maine business. The series is presented by the Portland Press Herald and hosted by Lisa DeSisto, publisher and CEO of Maine Today Media.

“My experience over the last 25 years has helped shape my business philosophy to one that has proven to be successful, and I was thrilled by the opportunity to talk with listeners about how our Bank has changed and thrived over the last 147 years,” Silsby said.

In the nearly hour-long interview, which is available free at any time for anyone, Silsby discusses numerous topics including his leadership style, the importance of showing younger employees a clear career path and why email isn’t the best way to solve problems.

Silsby has been with Kennebec Savings since 1993 and listeners get an in-depth look into how he’s helped make the bank so successful, with 20-percent customer growth in the last five years. From the Bank’s innovative college intern program to the importance of employee appreciation, Silsby offers excellent advice for others in leadership positions.

Click here to listen to the full podcast. Maine Today Media includes The Maine Sunday Telegram, Kennebec Journal, Waterville Sentinel and Lewiston Sun Journal.

###